New position created

IIT to have chancellor
by Ned Liddell

In the near future IIT will have a new "president on campus" in the form of a chancellor, according to Dr. Thomas Martin, President of IIT. The change in administrative structure has already been officially approved and a search committee is being formed to consider candidates both from within and outside IIT.

The word chancellor is normally used to describe the head of a university or one of the campuses of a university system. The new chancellor of IIT will have authority similar to what President Martin exercises now and will effectively be the chief operating officer as well as academic head of the university. Except for a few exceptions the vice presidents, academic deans and administrators who are now directly responsible to Martin will report to the chancellor. The chancellor then will be responsible to the president of the university, the Vice President for Development, Vice President and Executive Secretary to the Board of Trustees, and University Council will still report to the president.

With the new chancellor taking over many of the day-to-day operations at the campus, Martin says he will be freed to do other work for IIT, especially fundraising and development. As the structure is now, Martin feels he hasn't the time to handle all the difficulties IIT is facing.

Up until two years ago there was a provost at IIT who had a function similar to what the new chancellor will be doing, but the position was eliminated. "At the time, we had all our deans in place and we thought we could partion off the provost's duties between us and reduce the commitment to the administrative side," said Martin. "We couldn't do it.

Anyone of high caliber who comes in as chancellor would have to be a salary similar to that of the university president, since he would indeed be the "president on campus." In light of the discussions last semester between the administration and faculty on relative numbers and costs of each group, there is some concern about the wisdom of adding more weight to the administrative side of the house.

One way to pay for the new administrator may be to eliminate the School of Advanced Studies according to Martin, a move which has been proposed by the Council of Deans. The duties of that dean and his staff would be handed over to the five academic deans who would handle IIT graduate students.

Dr. Ernst, the president of the Faculty Senate at IIT expressed caution about the plans to search for and install a chancellor. Although asked to serve on the search committee he is hesitant to do so, explaining that members of the committee need to have the time to do the job as well as significant information resources "outside" where the chancellor would be found.

"The chancellor will be a prime candidate for the next president," Ernst said, "and so it behoves those on the search committee to only settle for the best."

Campus Security Committee meets
by Linda Parsons

The Campus Security Committee met Wednesday, January 30, to air concerns that a new Seven-Eleven store on the Commons will sell liquor which might increase crime on campus.

IIT residents fear that the store, which will be open all night, will attract hoodlums from outside the IIT community. However, Frank Higgins, Manager of Campus Safety, and Don Mehlhintercher, Director of Physical Resources, believe that the 7-11 will not be a problem. They say the store should not add or subtract from outside traffic because there are other cheaper package stores nearby, and the 7-11 will not sell liquor after 11 am. Also, 7-11 has agreed not to advertise to people outside the IIT campus.

Higgins told the committee that there was a reduction in crime in 1984 compared to 1983. In 1984 460 crimes were reported; in 1983 there were 518. This shows that the campus police are doing a better job, says Higgins.

Many of last semester's crimes occurred in the fraternities. As a result, since the middle of December there has been an extra all night police detail assigned to the fraternity area.

At all times during the night and day there is a safe officer walking the west side of campus and another walking the east.

Bog remains open
by Ken Baker

Towards the end of last semester, Technology News ran two stories regarding plans to close the Bog for lunch in this semester. The plans were being made because there was much less business for the food service in the JUB than expected. There are about 200 fewer students here than last year and there hasn't been as much business as hoped from IITRI since their cafeteria closed. In an effort to keep the Bog open at noon time some students began passing around a petition to present to Dean Vice and Russ Johnson, the director of the JUB.

In a short interview in December, Johnson expressed regret over the decision but said it was necessary because the JUB could not afford to run a deficit in the food service.

This Monday, however, students were no doubt surprised and pleased to find the Bog open for lunch at the usual time. Last wek Johnson commented on the laps that were taken to allow the Bog to stay open.

Johnson said that they were expecting to save about $6,000 per month by closing the Bog at noon time, and that they are running a deficit by keeping it open.

Some things were done to help reduce the deficit. Some prices in the Bog and the cafeteria have been increased, and some student jobs have been eliminated. With these measures they were able to make up most of the $6,000, leaving a deficit of only a few thousand per month.

As of yet no one from the Bog has been fired, but eight people have left for their own reasons, and they will not be replaced. However, employee's hours have been reduced. There will be no express line on Tuesdays and Thursdays for lunch and fewer people than last will be working during lunchtime.

Most of the food prices have been raised five to fifteen cents, soft drinks have gone up twenty cents, and beer has been raised slightly. The Bog manager, Eric Sampson remarked that the prices are still very reasonable compared to other similar restaurants, and the beer prices have been raised for the first time in five years.

Crangle to speak

Robert D. Crangle, director of the Center for Research on Industrial Strategy and Work (CRISP) will speak at this Thursday's meeting of Tech Entrepreneurs. Crangle will discuss factors in organizational success and failure.

Crangle, a graduate of the Harvard Law School, has over fifteen years experience as a management consultant and is president of his own small consulting firm. Until last September, when he joined the faculty of the Stuart School, he was the Senior Vice-President in the Chicago office of Harbridge House, Inc., an international management consulting firm headquartered in Boston. Crangle is a member of the bar in Illinois and Massachusetts and an arbitrator for the American Arbitration Association. He teaches two graduate level courses on information resources management in the Stuart School.

Tech Entrepreneurs
Robert D. Crangle will discuss factors in organizational success and failure at the next Tech Entrepreneurs meeting on Thursday, February 17, 12:20 pm in the Field Room in Hermann Hall.
Tech Entrepreneurs is a student organization for those students interested in the areas of space and start-up. For more information, call Omar Hamed (672-4251), Frank Houston (842-9269), or Dr. Richard Rattig (567-5126).

Read a Good Book
"The Bible and You Today" study/prayer group will continue their reflections on the Gospel according to St. Mark this Tuesday, February 5 at 12:15 pm in the Field Conference Room, in the Southwest corner of the HUB. The study notes the significance and reflections to the practical and personal demands of academic and social life. The session is open to the IIT community.

Chapel service
Sunday Chapel Service will resume February 3 at 11 a.m. with the worship liturgy of the Word and Sacrament of Holy Communion (Celebration of the Eucharist). The Prayer Service is ecumenical (Christian unity) and integrates music and text in a worship experience relevant to the university student today in a fusion of the traditional and the contemporary. The dialogue homily or reflection of the Gospel and other Scripture texts is led by Chaplain Anselm Pahud, with participation by the music and worship student committee. The IIT community is cordially invited.

Come sail away
The IIT Sailing Club is offering a variety of programs this Spring for students, faculty, and staff. The first of these is a free sailing session. Each student will receive personalized education and a successful completion of the course. For further information regarding lessons, attend the organizational meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 5 in room 305-H at 12:00.
As always, the Sailing Club will continue to offer Saturday Morning Sailing at Belmont Harbor. The Saturday morning program is a great opportunity for some exciting sailing and open to anyone, regardless of experience.
Again this semester, the Sailing Club will be hosting a team for interested in the competition. Through our most experienced members will be available, anyone may try. Experience is not necessary to enjoy the aspects of sailing. This past Fall the Sailing Team had two top-three finishes at the Illinois Collegiate Sloop Championships and the IIT Fall Regatta in addition to defeating two of the nation's top-ten-rank teams. This Spring the Club is planning a trip to a region of the U.S. for further competition in addition to that found in the Midwest.

Behind the scenes
Get involved! flaunt your knowledge of EE, CE on the stage... by designing, building, wiring, installing special scenery, props, or lighting for a Broadway musical comedy. Join the crew or cast for a production of the musical "Plonk." For information, contact the student director by phone at Hermann Hall Auditorium between 7 and 9 pm Monday, Tuesday, February 11, 12.
Produced by Music Theater of Chicago, those same wonderful people that brought you "Superstar" in the spring of 1984. For campus information, call M. Dixon, Main Bldg., 567-3353.

IEEE hosts meeting
On Thursday, Feb. 14, 1985 at 12 pm in Segel Hall, IEEE A HKN present Kurt Gunther, design engineer from Zenith electronics. Mr. Gunther will be speaking about the engineering opportunities available at Zenith. This is a valuable opportunity to learn firsthand what the company is like. Zenith will be on campus interviewing on Feb. 18, 1985. Anyone interested in obtaining an IEEE T-shirt should contact the IEEE office in room 316 SH. The design for the T-shirt will be posted on the IEEE bulletin board on the second floor of SH. The price is $7.00.

Gaming club
The Alternate Realities Gaming Club will be holding a meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 5 at 12:30 in room 222 E1. Anyone interested in wargames or fantasy role playing games is invited to attend.

Don't delay!
The Counseling Center Workshop on Friday February 8 will be on overcoming procrastination. It will be from 12:15-1:00 pm in the HUB mahazine. Bring your lunch, if you like.

Want to act?
Tech dancer, actors, and actors are alerted to audition for the all-Chicago cast of "Pippin" set for 7-9 pm, Monday and Tuesday, February 11 and 12, at Hermann Hall Auditorium, 3241 S. Federal St. on the IIT campus.
Produc: is Music Theater of Chicago. director is Dennis Barden. Performances will be April 26-28 and May 3-5.
For more information, please call 225-7797 or M. Dixon, Main Bldg., 567-3353.

Get your loan
Any student with either a National Direct Student Loan of a Institutional Loan for the 84-85 school year must sign now for the Spring semester award. The loan may be signed in the Student Loan Office, Main Bldg., 5th floor, Mon.-Fri., between the hours of 8:30 and 5:00.

Smart computers
The Physics Department is holding a colloquium on the subject of intelligent computer-aided tutoring in physics on Wednesday, Feb. 6 at 4 pm in room 217 at Segel Hall. The guest speaker will be Dr. Val Veirs of Colorado Springs-Yafta. There will also be a pre-colloquium social in the conference room of SH (room 222) at 3:30.

Moon Madness
Tuesday Feb. 5 from 8-11 pm is Full Moon Madness night at the Bog. The IIT Jazz Band will be featured, along with 50% draft Heinkeens. Heinkeens mine, shirts, hats, etc. will be raffled off also.

A reader’s letter to Mr. Sabas

Ed Sabas,

I agree with your conclusions in a great many cases. However I get uncomfortable with the way you arrive at them. Your opinions are obviously deeply felt but they don’t appear to be thought out or researched. In addition, you are cynical and about the other person, of course.

As an old man, Benjamin Franklin addressed the arguing Constitutional Congress. He told them how thoughtful his life there was all the time he deeply believed in. He said his opinions on many things had changed as he experienced new events or considered other arguments. Franklin cautioned the near-deadlocked delegates to pursue what they believed in but to remember the possibility that they could be wrong. Someday perhaps, they would argue for the opposite position, as he had done. Ed, in short you and I could be wrong about our views. Either way, the opponent can be right. If they have valid points that may refine your ideas. It’s not inconceivable that you might learn something from Jesse Jackson, Jimmy Carter, or Karl Marx. So you may not have common ground with them.

A case in point is your reply to Michael Patton’s letter discussing Nicaragua. Your rebuff started by calling him naive, next by saying that because he has no experience, you understand how the world really works. You sarcastically tore into him and implied that Mr. Patton’s views are something happening in the past with other letters to you.

In my first few articles dealing with the fairness of the press, Ed, you are writing irresponsibly. You say you understand how the world really works. And you understand only your own views, which is to say you understand little.

Sincerely, Jim Farrell

A reply to Ed

Mr. Farrell,

Thank you for your very eloquent words, I seem to be a little confused as to what you actually object to. You said “I agree with your conclusions in a great many cases.” Your opinions are obviously deeply felt but they don’t appear to be thought out or researched.” Letter you add that “actually you understand only your own views, which is to say you understand little.” Well Mr. Farrell if you agree with me “in a great many cases” and dislike my lack of thought and research arriving at my conclusions, I suggest to think at much how much you must spend at arriving at the same conclusion. Also Mr. Farrell if we agree “in a great many cases” and I arrive at my conclusions without thought or research what does that say about how much you understand?

A comment on ‘The Value of Men’

We have all heard that every honest man should have the ability to laugh at himself. This quality is indeed necessary when we realize that, as Mr. Morris and Ricci so lucidly point out, we are all, at the time of conception, female. Of course, conception is considered by every enlightened liberal to be a time of pre-humane, pre-literate men. I guess I can see the connection.

This letter is primarily written, however, to point out, in the interest of equality, that even a MAN can create a ran- som note where -a ‘glaire in error in actuation, albeit without the virility and ease as a woman. This profound grammatical ability might even be put to use in scripting contemporary vaginal disorders and urinary discharge absorbents. It all goes to show that there’s nothing to prevent the emerging female from clawing right to the top once she’s discovered “design.”

As for game-show hosts, only a crazy MAN would seek employment controlling money crazed females, who undergo severe personality changes with the phases of the moon. However, if it wasn’t for this daring breed, there would be precious little time to explain the etiological effects of “does” in treating the females’ strange lunar malady. These sane shows probably aid in helping

Ms. Ricci and Morrisson reply

On Monday, January 28th, we called WOOR to defend our article ‘The Value of Men’ in an open, phone-in forum. We have but two things left to say regarding this. First, we would like to recommend to all those individuals who called in with digestive problems that they seek the care of a physician as soon as possible. Secondly, “No, we don’t wear skirts, we wear dresses.” Now that we have said that out of the way, we thought we’d take this opportunity to explain ourselves.

We read in a very respectable magazine (not the National Inquirer) that it is possible that two egg cells, en vivo, under specific conditions, can be fertilized without sperm. It is the egg that contains all the necessary structures for the development of the embryo, while the sperm contains just specific additional material. Simply stated, one egg is capable of fertilizing another. That’s what we meant by “men are obsolete,” that “natural selection will...”, etc., etc. That was the extent of the serious portion of the article.

You see, the rest of it was just our idea of a joke. We didn’t think that so many of you would get so upset. We’re sorry to have upset you if you didn’t realize the seriousness for lack thereof of our joke. When Timoteo and Gattone decided to express their opinion of the opposite gender, we didn’t think anyone would let the writers or the staff who published it. I’m unaware of any forum where women are allowed to express their opinion of their treatment in this publication. Obviously, this wasn’t the place either. But, because there are a lot more of you fellows out there than us gals, we guess democracy rules out in this great republic of ours and we promise never to attempt to

A plea to help the needy

The cyanide gas disaster at the Union Carbide plant in Bhopal, India and the vast famine engulfing West Africa beg the mind of the western consumer, the lynx consumes, totally affiliated or permanently crippled. The relentless plague of suffering these past years has forced us in thinking when viewing its scope. Some one cannot respond rationally to the bitter evil that the famine has inflicted on the human race in seemingly random fashion.

As we reason our academic and other responsibilities, the time to consider personal fulfillment is tempered by a grief shared with the suffering and the families of the victims. We can regard our sacrifice as motivation for improvement in industrial safety for the living, and a real attempt to advance the process of distributing human resources throughout the world. We realize that good intentions are not enough, however, and towards that end one can call the American Friends Service Committee Chicago office (407 S. Dearborn St. Suite 270, Chicago, IL 606065 Tel. 427-2353) regarding the earmarking of contributions to the General African Hunger Fund. This office coordinates with other social religious and governmental agencies attempting to provide direct delivery of services and funds. There is no bureaucratic obstacle in the way. We can also offer the supportive presence to our Indian friends to mark our solidarity with their sorrow after a traumatic year of terrorism and upheaval in India moves on under new political leadership.

Yet again, dramatically, we are reminded that crisis and loss illuminate our human vulnerability and the need for mutual help, regardless of where we live on this planet. Perhaps that is what life is at its best - a microcosm of the global community is all about.

The first session centered on home safety, the second on street safety. Several people commented on how useful the seminars were. Future seminars will probably be arranged to discuss rape and safety for commuters.

The Whistle Stop Program was discussed next. Whistle Stop packages are available in the bookstore. The package contains a whistle and instructions on how to use the whistle. Chicago and campus police stress the importance of preventing crime and recommend Whistle Stop.

Jim, & Joe - back again

by Joe Gatton and Jim Trione

Well, we're back again! We're all back at the friendly squareness of IIT. As usual, things at IIT are running smoothly, on or off the schedule. Seven-Eleven. One month behind schedule, as if they didn't know they needed a roof, a ceiling, and fixtures. How long will the delay be when they decide they need to stock the store with food and accessories? And, perhaps, maybe some employees? Never fear, though, "A BRAND NEW 7-11 STORE COMING SOON!" it's the billing season again, too. Isn't it strange how this place has existed for something they know you don't have? Nowadays, there's more than just tuition and room and board charge. Oh, (fade to canned screaming) . . . it's the Computer Librarian fee. What, pray tell, is the Computer Librarian fee? Is it a charge for the privilege of staring at rows upon rows of empty shelves in an antiquated building with dilapidated steps? Or is it a computer surplus imposed upon incoming students who will soon be required to buy, at an additional fee, an IBM Personal Computer? We simply don't know. Speaking of required costs, has anyone been to the bookstore lately? If so, were you able to acquire what you had originally intended to buy? Seventy-five, seventy-five, do I hear seventy-five? Yes, I hear seventy-five. Can I hear eighty? Yes, this man says eighty-five. Do we hear ninety? Do we hear ninety? I hear ninety five, hundred, hundred twenty. One hundred twenty dollars. What's that? One hundred thirty-five. Do you hear that ladies and gentlemen? One hundred thirty-five dollars. Excuse me, ma'am, was that one hundred fifty? Yes, I hear one hundred and fifty dollars. Going once, going twice, one hundred fifty for the third and final time, SOLD to the IT student. Yes, three textbooks for $150. Sigh.

Perhaps the extensive revitalization of the bookstore (a Herculean task equal in scope to the rebuilding of Rome - or the 7-11 store - whichever comes first) is sufficient grounds for the expenditure. However, maybe a second: "Sorry for the inconvenience!" placed in the Commons wouldn't be fool out of line. Isn't everybody moving in yet? Stereos in place, beer in the fridge? It is your residential organization treating you with loving care, or have you taken victim to certain ritualistic mishaps? But don't worry, boys, statistically speaking, the Houses are still safer than driving. Besides, speaking of residential organizations, living in dorms isn't that easy, either. You might be having trouble with your ceremonies, but we're having trouble just getting a TV, not to mention an RHA exec board.

Of course, having an executive board isn't everything. Look at ATS. They've got an exec board but no members. This is unfortunate because they had a relatively productive fall semester. For one, the IIT student handbook called Connections was reorganized and is now being distributed, despite several botched attempts by various printing organizations to get it out last semester. In any case, ATS is once again scrambling for members. Well, business as usual.

Has anyone had any problems with security, yet? Maybe this semester will turn out a little bit better than the last, especially when one considers the advent of Whistle Stop and the increasingly visible campus police force (fin) .

Females. Time once again to choose the new cafeteria goddess. Although the recent semester's shipment offers very little in the way of quantity or quality, this is to be expected of a Spring semester. We do, however, eagerly anticipate the Fall '85 arrivals.

Oh, and yes, there's the matter of the recently published statements by Miss Morrison and Miss Ricci. We can do no less that express shock and disappointment at their direct implication that women should be kept "barefoot and pregnant." How can anyone admit to the world that their total value to the world is their ability to have children? On second thought, if they all thought that way, this could very well be a better world. But truly, women have made important contributions to mankind despite what Miss Morrison and Miss Ricci would have you believe. We struggled long and arduously to find the paradigm, or perfect example of the exemplary qualities of women.

"Um, er, uh . . . oh . . . um . . ." a voice off in the corner. Enough said. We won't even mention Adam's rib, or the use of the National Enquirer as a source (ha, ha). On with the semester. We can continue to bake in Perelson and freeze in Wishbach. Even the clock in the faculty club still reads a quarter to two. Well, business as usual.

The action which led to the new position of the IIT administration took place quickly. Martin discussed the matter on Tuesday, January 22 with Mr. Robert Pritzker, a member of the Board of Trustees who headed up the search committee. A letter from Martin to Pritzker summarizing their discussion was written on Wednesday. On Thursday, January 24 the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees met and approved the proposal to change the administrative structure. They have the authority to act in place of the full Board so the approval is official.

The representative-elect of the tenured faculty, Dr. Knaft (president, Faculty Senate) and Dr. Roth (president-elect) were first informed on the morning of Monday, January 28, and met that afternoon with Pritzker and Dr. Jean Walker-Hurst, the administrator responsible for affirmative action at IIT and coordinator of the search committee. It was proposed at that time that Ernst and Roth serve on the search committee. On Wednesday, January 30 a memo outlining the plan was sent by Martin to all faculty members and staff.

The search committee being formed has been asked to find a chancellor as quickly as possible. Mr. Pritzker, head of the Marshall Group of Chicago and IIT Trustee responsible for education, met Monday, February 1, in the Faculty Club with other trustees and several IIT faculty members to discuss possible composition of the search committee. The faculty members invited were Ernst, Roth, Haas (Eng. Div.), Nabil (ME) and Higgins (Dean of Advanced Studies).

Some faculty members have questioned whether there is more to the decision to seek a chancellor than has been publicly expressed. President Martin says that is just not true. "There's no plot, no secret motives, no hidden reasons. It is an attempt to do what is the best thing for IIT."

In his letter to Pritzker of January 23, Martin listed a number of areas he might investigate on IIT's behalf if freed from many of his on-campus responsibilities. They are:

- definition of the academic and research parameters which will characterize IIT in the coming decade
- building national and local awareness of IIT

Relating to the Civic Committee of the Commercial Club, and making something happen
- repositioning IIT and IITRI to make them more productively interactive
- determining the IIT-IITRI posture and actions relative to the 1982 World Fair's
- improving communication between the administration, faculty, and students
- conceptualizing the next major development campaign
- accelerating IIT-IITRI cooperation and joint ventures with local industry
- planning to use non-productive assets (e.g., land) to revitalize IIT
- resolution of the "research park" issue.

Swimmers break streak
by Wll Johnstone
The varsity swimming team broke a four-year losing streak in events to the Illinois Benedictine College last Wednesday with a 60-49 score at IBC's home pool. IIT grabbed most of the gold with 6 firsts to IBC's 5. The Hawks also captured 13 of 20 backstroke, Freestyle, and IBC Coach Marion Hayden took second place.
Chuck Fee was highscorer for the Hawks with two firsts and a second, totaling 13 points. Mike Mussler, scoring 12 points, was in second place in the team standings with two individual firsts and another first in the 400 yard medley relay. Doug Lovato, IIT's outstanding diver, not only won both the 1 and 3 meter board events, but also qualified in these same events for the National Division II NCAA Championships to be held in Orlando, Florida in mid-March of this year. Doug also earned a third place point in the 50 yard freestyle.
The only other first for the Hawks was won by Freshman Ray Sullivan in the 200 yard butterfly event. Ray totaled 8 points in all and didn't get disqualified once again.
Other point getters for IIT were Aaron Henley and Will Johnstone with 6 points each, Mark Hurson with 3 points, Gordon Search and James Wiley with 2 points each, and Stewart McEwan with one point.
The Swimming Hawks have now won 6 meets and lost 3. With three more meets to go, the team will be 500 or above for the fourth year in a row. Coach Macrch stated that the team's first priority has been reached, a 500 or better dual meet season. The secondary priority has been focused on "making the people happy" for the National Championships.
Two boys have already qualified, and Coach Macruch feels that there is a strong possibility that more individuals and a relay team will make it. However, there are only three more weeks for this priority.

Soccer team comes up short
by Jim McNulty
On Saturday January 28th, the IIT Soccer team traveled to the wilds of Palos Heights to compete in an indoor soccer tournament sponsored by Trinity Christian College. The tournament was composed of 4 teams from Illinois and Wisconsin such as NCAA Division III Champion Wheaton College, Hope College, Aurora College, NCAA Division III runner-up Macmurray, Mike institute, Calvin College, North Park College, and Trinity Christian College.
The competition was fierce and the games were fast and furious. Unfortunately, IIT came unprepared for the brutal day of matches with its most basic equipment, soccer players, and training. Despite the effort of the team, IIT's only success was scoring a goal from Jimmy Aparicio (2) and Steve Lewis (1). However, the Hawks were not able to score against the Junior Knights. Nine different players contributed to the scoring. Despite the fact that the Hawks were not able to score, they were able to score and score again. As the day went on, the Hawks lost 2 games and lost another, and the other teams' coaches were relieved.
In the Hawks' first game, Hope College traded excellent use of its substitutes in its running game and were victors 3-2. The second game proved to be just as frustrating for IIT as it lost to Calvin College, a tournament finalist, by a score of 4-0. In their final game, the Hawks were able to salvage a 3-3 tie against the host, Trinity Christian College. Scores for IIT were Johnny Aparicio (2), Mike Grublic (1), and Steve Lewis (1). Despite what seemed to be a very gloomy day for the Hawks, there was a bright spot to the game. Johnny Aparicio was one of only 8 named to the All-Tournament team and coach Rich Fay, although disappointed by the poor team performance, was impressed with the way his team competed under constant pressure and looks forward to the Hawks' Indoor season in February.

Hockey team heads for top
During semester break, the IIT Hockey Team won their 2nd and 3rd straight games by defeating the Milwaukee School of Engineering 9-3 and destroying the Junior Knights with a score of 15-4. In both games, the Hawks totally dominated the play with balanced scoring from all lines.
Rick Pappas scored 2 goals to lead the victory over MSOE. Defensive pair Rick "Pop" Pipala and Chris "Hi ya" Chaja did an outstanding job in clearing out Milwaukee skaters in front of IIT's net. As usual, goalie Jim McGinn played superbly.
In the six games that he's played, he's only given up 16 goals for a low 2.67 goals against average.
Despite the fact that the Hawks were not able to score against the Junior Knights, nine different players contributed to the scoring. Rick Robin, Rany Rheault and George Daidel each scored two goals. As well as playing a good defensive game, Jim Smith scored his third goal in as many games to add to IIT's lead.
The Hawks put the game total out of reach by scoring seven goals before the Knights broke the shutout late in the second period. The other IIT goal scorers were Robin Himley, Keith Gray, Rick Kapp, Joe Kolbrich, and Greg Dowd. Mike Gallach had 3 assists and Rick Groch, Steve West, and Chris Cagia each had one assist.
The balanced scoring and overall team effort are sure to be good assets for the Hawks as they start the second half of the season. The team is currently in second place in the Illinois-Wisconsin collegiate Hockey Association and are hoping to gain ground on U. W. Platteville, who leads the league.
The Hawks are looking forward to a strong second half and are preparing themselves for the playoffs in March. The next home game will be Sunday February 10, 1:35 pm at Southview Ice Arena. There will be a bus leaving the Campus Service Station at 12:00 pm for anyone interested in going. Directions to the game are also available at Keating Hall. Show some school spirit by coming out and watching some exciting hockey as the Hawks battle 3rd place Beloit College.
