Martin welcomes you

"Welcome to IIT, one of the most distinctive universities in the United States. You are joining an extraordinary and select group of students who have the opportunity to study and work directly with an unusually talented faculty. You are joining the community of scholars in one of the largest centers of engineering and scientific research in the country, the largest in the Midwest. You owe it to yourself to make the most of it.

Indeed, IIT makes an unequalled variety of resources available to you to enrich your education and to maximize the return on your investment in an education. IIT is the most important of these resources. They are available to you - not just in class, but for consultation outside of class. You are interested in them and so are we.

Nothing pleases us more than to work closely with students who genuinely want to understand the subject they teach, the subject to which they have devoted themselves. A TechMate faculty member is a recognized scholar and this recognition is national and frequently international. To seek out an IIT professor in his office for advice.

TechMate's monthly Sports Report, students meet with members of administration, and faculty. Through informal luncheons and gatherings provided by the Alumni Life Office, students become more informed about school policy and events. Through conversation with the guests, new students establish rapport with these key people. Topics discussed can range from financial aid to new developments from the faculty.

The TechMate monthly Sports Report, provides events with the opportunity to interact competitively with people outside the classroom. Learning the responsibilities of working as a team and competing with others helps build friendships and communication skills. Activities such as softball, volleyball, swimming, and bowling are offered. The Counselling Center, and the Psychological Services are available to you to provide a range of support services that are crucial to your success in college.

As you can see from this issue of the IIT News, you are provided with an incredibly rich and unparalleled range of resources and opportunities. You are paying for it. What you make of it is up to you.

The Alumni of IIT, those who preceded you, made this possible for all of us. They have succeeded in making this university a place where all students can learn and grow. The community of scholars is an integral part of the IIT experience.

Introduction to the Greek System

by Tony Marchese

Sororities and fraternities are a significant part of campus life at The Greek at Illinois Institute of Technology. The Greek system is highly supported by the University community. Students who choose to participate in sororities and fraternities have special opportunities and responsibilities in the University community. Sororities and fraternities provide opportunities for developing new friendships and experiences across the country. They also provide offices for students to gain valuable skills and knowledge.

The Greek system should be a time for enjoyment and pleasure as well as a chance to meet many new people. Visit as many chapters as you wish, there is no charge and no obligation to a chapter. Some students have nine fraternities at Illinois Tech. There's something for everyone in the Greek system, whether you're looking for a social group or a chance to make a difference.

Do not pledge a chapter because of your roommate or best friend. High school is not a predictor to college. Do not feel obligated to a chapter because of your friends. Visit as many chapters as you wish, there is no charge and no obligation to a chapter. Some students have nine fraternities at Illinois Tech. There's something for everyone in the Greek system, whether you're looking for a social group or a chance to make a difference.

(Umban: The Hairy Terry of Main(once again))

(Editors Note: This article is a reprint of an episode in the adventures of Umban. It first appeared in the August 1985 issue of "Technology News.

For most humans, living through the day is a struggle of survival. It doesn't conjure up images of slave labor or drudgery. No, it's spent in celebration of the fact that the sun has risen or, for whatever other excuse they come up with. They would certainly never spend that fleeting traclement, and in over the daydream, they seem to have a little juice.

"Yeah, agreed the Features, "Your -or whatever this might pull this one off, though."

"I only had more articles."

"All we have to do is the same thing, Minkums."

"We have to worry about it."

"See if that limp -intertwined writer finished that article on tulip hikes yet."

"Minkums walked over a door on the north wall."

"It opened, and looked in."

"In the main room, a young man clad in ragged clothes and his ankles to the floor."

"A pen was on the table."

"He wrote a paper."

"No, he was finished."

"said Kneg."

"Minkums and the student, professor of the school, etc."

"Maybe reader would probably be wondering at this point just what Umban was doing, clinging to the wall of Main Building, like a puppet on a wall."

"The answer is simple, if a bit complicated."

"He was looking for his frisbee."

"To most people, playing Frisbee in a cold winter was a big source of entertainment."

"He stopped in front of them, and shouted a sentence: "What news do you have."

"The two bucks began talking like a preacher on the road."

people using windows as entryways. He had done this on several occasions, so he knew just how upset people got.

So, without much further thought, Ubman climbed up about twenty more feet and found his beloved friebee. It lay gleaming on a carpet of snow on the roof, covered in silver, unlike the rest, which were silver-gold. He was beginning to think that there were two kinds of snow, but he didn’t like to admit it.

Ubman decided to throw the snow down to the ground, where it was safe. He picked up the friebee and looked around, trying to think of a place to land it. That was an easy task, as Ubman was on the ground floor.

After brushing the snow off, Ubman climbed up to the third floor of Main Building, turning the friebee as he climbed. A few of the students watched him, wondering if he was going to climb any higher. He was, but the friebee didn’t fall off.

Ubman sat down on the edge of the roof, watching the snow showers. He was wondering if he should climb down and let the snow fall on the roof. He decided not to.

campus security officers, and the commitment by the administration to erect lighting down the Dearborn freeman.

The first and second members of the IIT Curriculum Committee, a teacher evaluation program, has been designed to provide students with useful information at no cost. But a teacher's role was the "professor interesting?" "would you take the professor's class as a student?"

As a tool at recruiting time, ATS has developed a "Leadership Transcript." It provides recruiters with information regarding the student's academic and extra-curricular involvement. With support of the Career Placement Office, ATS hopes to have the transcript completed by the end of the fall term.

ATS is responsible for producing the students' student desk telephone directory, Connections. Through sales revenue from phone numbers, ATS hopes to once again provide the campus with this useful book.

Each year ATS sponsors College Bowl, a trivia game show. Intramural teams compete for cash prizes by answering questions regarding history, mathematics, geography, current events, etc. The selected All-Star team will go on to compete in the regional competition, representing IIT in opposing schools as U of C and Northwestern.

Last year, ATS brought to the attention of the Campus Security Committee the idea of developing personal safety programs and integrating them into the athletic department. The topics explored would be self-defense, streetwise conduct, and foreign student safety. This year ATS wants to see some of these programs instituted.

Furthermore, ATS is discussing the possibility of initiating a community tutoring program, with the assistance of Chicago Housing Authority representatives and the Professional and Honor Societies.

ATS also sponsors a Fall Leadership Conference, a seminar devoted to developing student leadership and the ways it can be applied at IIT. Freshmen are encouraged to attend and begin developing their skills early.

At the ATS Spring Conference, by using a question-answer forum, students pose questions directly at the campus administrators and hear their spontaneous answers. Once again, the topics range from security to the development of new ideas, as well as the year's achievements and plans for future goals.

Every program mentioned above needs the support of the students. It is the students which are the driving force behind ATS, and to accomplish the '85-'86 goals will take the cooperation of many students. If some of the committee or programs sound interesting to you, feel free to stop by and attend the meetings and become active.

Connie's Pizza, the Rec Room, etc. Other parties are thrown just for the fun of it, i.e., the Games Party, the Swim Party, and the New Year's Party.

The monthly affairs, aside from the LunchBreak, require that members sign-up in the Student Life Office if they wish to attend. The reservation information is needed no later than one day prior to the event.

By reading the TechMate NewsLetter members are informed about campus events, i.e., the results of Campus Life and Computer Science meetings and how they will affect them, as well as their own activities calendar. It also serves as a yearbook when compiled at the end of the Spring semester. Newsletters are placed in assigned mailboxes in the Student Life Office. This box can also be used by students to leave messages for one another.

Apart from the social aspect of the program, TechMate provides tutoring to its members. When a student needs help, the TechMate coordinator will arrange for a personal tutor affiliated with the TechMate program or the Honor and Professional Societies. By introducing students to IIT earlier in the year it will be easier to take advantage of the programs these organizations offer.

The success of the TechMate program relies on the freshmen peer helpers (upperclassmen) who are assigned groups of freshmen or transfer students according to their majors. Their job is to motivate their group to take part in campus activities which will contribute to the new students' growth and development.

The leader calls or meets with his/her group regularly and gets to know the campus life needs of the members. By functioning as a liaison, the FreshMate brings the student and campus life programs together. Also the leader is able to give the students perspective on homework problems and other academic concerns.

IIT Hawks

Varsity Soccer Team

The IIT Soccer Team rewrite history last season by compiling a fine record of 8-3. This is the best record achieved by any IIT Soccer was initiated as a varsity sport eleven years ago. Impressive wins over Oliver-Nazarene, Purdue-Calumet, and the season-ending victory over the University of Chicago demonstrated their winning form.

Women's Varsity Tennis Team

The IIT Women's Varsity Tennis team captured its first winning season last year. Women's tennis began five years ago with a lowly 6-9 record. Each year the team has improved. But gone from last year's team are three strong players. However, Coach Bob Topper expects this season's new recruits to continue the winning tradition. More players are needed, though. If you have any tennis experience and want to win, see Coach Topper in Keating Hall.

Champion Hockey Team

IIT's Hockey team skated on to through strong victories to end with a conference record of 6-3-1 and an overall record of 10-4-1. The Hawks traveled to Beloit, Wisconsin to play in the Illinois-Wisconsin Collegiate Hockey Championship. In a heart-stopping dramatic game, the team won 6-3 over the University of Wisconsin-Platteville team.

Swim Team

The IIT Varsity Swimming Team traveled to Orlando, Florida this spring to the Division II National Swimming and Diving Championship and triumphed with its first national ranking. Two swimmers captured All American status with their outstanding performances in diving and three swimming events: the 100 yard individual medley, the 100 yard backstroke, and the 200 yard backstroke. With the excellent showing last season, Coach Matuch hopes to see the Hawk's national championship in the near future.
